PERSONAL SUPPORT UNIT

The Personal Support Unit (PSU) is an independent charity, established since 2001. It is based in the main building at the Royal Courts of Justice. Further information can be found at www.thepsu.co.uk

- Our volunteers are trained in ways of helping and supporting people attending court and inquiries
 - Our service is free, impartial and confidential
 - We help those with or without lawyers
 - Our service is offered equally to everyone who asks

What we can do for you:

- We can provide a trained volunteer to attend the inquiry with you
 - We can give you someone to talk to before, during and after attending the inquiry
 - We can liaise with inquiry & legal staff
 - We can guide you through the inquiry procedure
 - We can identify the correct place for you to seek further advice
 - We can give you general information about the Building

Ring us beforehand to talk to a volunteer or phone us on the day (Tel 020 7947 7701/7703)

Witnesses will have a dedicated room at the inquiry, where refreshments will be provided. A volunteer can sit with them in this room

We cannot

- We cannot offer legal advice, and we are not trained to represent you at the inquiry

We have the right to refuse support and withdraw our service at any time.
